WIC PROGRAM BEGINS REMOTE SERVICES DUE TO COVID-19

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. – The Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program offered through Albemarle Regional Health Services local health departments is providing full services without participants having to visit the office due to COVID-19.

The WIC program is accepting applications, completing certifications, and issuing benefits by phone. The United States Department of Agriculture has granted the North Carolina Nutrition Services Branch a waiver for the requirement of physical presence due to COVID-19.

The WIC program has been granted the ability to defer certain requirements used to determine nutritional risk, such as height, weight and hemoglobin for a short period of time.

These special measures have been approved for use in North Carolina through May 31, however this date may be subject to change.
